Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

No, the world is not mad but a part of it is controlled by men made mad by popular adulation and vast power. Sanity does abide in spots and will spread eventually. Truth will snatch the mask off hypocracy one day and discredit in the court of reason all those things which are giving the world, including the United States such a jittery time now.

We are paying today undoubtedly for the sins of our industrial leaders who maintained their supremacy down to 1929. Then their patriarchial and paternal system broke down, and now we swing far over to the left. In due time the swing will spend itself and we shall swing back but not so far to the right as we were, for instance as during the Harding administration. Whenever we think of President Roosevelt, we try to think of President Harding, who was also very, very popular until TeaPot Dome began to bubble and sing. President Roosevelt is now making careless citizens pay for Mr. Harding's sins, and in due time we suspect that the careless taxpayers will pay for President Roosevelt's shortcomings. Probably we shall pay more on Mr. Roosevelt's account than for all the presidents for a generation past. As a matter of fact, blame in a democracy can hardly be saddled upon the President. We are all to blame.

The Wagner act is just one of the penances imposed on tax payers. It is a good act in so far as it compels employers to treat their workers like human beings with a right to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. It is a one-sided act, since it does not specifically make labor organizations responsible for their acts.

The Remington Rand company, for instance, has been ordered to return to employment 4,000 workmen who quit work, went on strike, and some of whom, threw brickbats, iron balls, bottles of acid and other missles at women and men, employed by Remington Rand who did not want to strike, and who insisted on their right of continuing to work. Not only was this done but Remington Rand machinery was destroyed by sabotage, emery dust poured into bearings. Employes who insisted on continuing work were pursued to their homes, beaten and slugged, their wives and children were persecuted, and stones thrown through their windows.

The Labor Board under the Wagner act, cannot take into account any of these acts of the labor organizations against Remington Rand, but if the company is proved to have coerced or brought undue influence to bear in forming a company union, it is guilty and must restore all those workmen, including the saboteurs, to their jobs. But the Labor Board's decision is not final, the company can, and has appealed to the courts and proposes a finish fight. And, since the law does not provide for any redress to the company for damage the union organization may do in good time we believe this injustice will be remedied. So we do not despair. We believe that union organizations having been granted rights that they should have had years ago, will in due time be obliged to assume responsibilities commensurate with their rights.

What is needed more than anything is an honest facing of facts, and sane conclusions and action based on those facts. There is no present likelihood of attaining this goal. We live in a vexed world that cannot see things in their just proportions. Our political leaders are offering us colored glasses to see through and the majority of us are looking through those glasses. But if the majority of us will hold fast to the old ideals of American justice and right living, in time we shall restore order and lawfulness again, justice to those who have been abused, and peace and progress to the nation.

STATE BUDGET BILL FOOTBALL OF POLITICS

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—The legislature continues in hot controversy over the passage of the state budget bill, carrying with it authorization for the expenditures to carry on California's government for the next two years.

It will cost the state government, including the grants to be awarded California from the federal government, around a half billion dollars for administration of the state departments, commissions and other agencies.

Governor Merriam's budget recommendation totaled around the $446,000,000 mark.

But for the first time since the state budget law was adopted by the people in 1922, the budget for the next two years has been made a partisan issue.

The Democrats in control in the assembly have a majority of the membership on the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. With less consideration of the individual item of the budget than ever before in the history of the committee, the members suddenly after a dinner caucus Monday night decided to rush the budget to the floor of the Lower House for action.

Lawrence Cobb, member of the assembly for several terms and ways and committee chairman in the 1933 session and at present secretary of the Republican State Central Committee has made survey, disclosing just what the Democrats did in their precipitious action on the budget. Cobb's analysis is as follows:

"The state budget recommended by the democratic controlled Ways and Means Commiteee of the assembly actually increases state expenditures 4 1-2 millions instead of effecting a reduction as represented by the democratic assembly.

"Here is what the committee, after weeks of study and debate, did. It deleted from the budget all capital improvements and repairs amounting to approximately 6 3-4 millions; reduced the 48 million dollar work relief appropriation 8 million; and the emergency fund one-half million.

"In turn, the committee then added to the work relief appropriation 7 1-4 million and ear marked it for capital improvements and repairs. In addition, it agreed to recommend for passage by the legislature special appropriation bills for increased departmental expenditures items totaling 4 1-2 millions.

"In view of the fact that the 48 million dollars recommended by the governor for work relief is probably 8 million in excess of the amount actually needed, the net result will be that the Ways and Means Committee has actually recommended increased state expenditures totally 4 1-4 millions instead of effecting reductions of some four millions a represented.

"The constitution clearly provides that the budget shall contain a complete itemized statement of all proposed state expenditures. Clearly, the procedure adopted by the Ways and Means Committee is pure subterfuge. It would appear that a deliberate attempt is being made to mislead the public by the performance of an optical illusion."

Among the increases stricken out of the budget bill after they had been approved by the Ways and Means Committee were the following: University of California, $1,410,000; Emergency fund, to be used in case of forest fires, epidemics, etc., reduced from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000; State Railroad Commission, $253,000, of which $20,000 was requested by organized labor for safety department needs; $195,000 for the State Veteran's Home at Yountville; $434,000, for State Colleges at Arcata, Chico, San Jose, Fresno, San Francisco, Santa Barbara and San Diego; California Nautical School, $52,175; Folsom prison $487,000; San Quentin prison, $52,000; State Fish and Game Commission, $1,167,000; Water Resources for Central Valley Water project, $50,000.

"A legislative logrolling contest will result," declared Assemblyman Cliff Cottrell, Ways and Means chairman two years ago. This was not budget making but an attempt to dodge responsibility. The majority of the committee acted to destroy the system of budget making we put in."

Assemblyman Frank G. Martin, Altadena, Republican and Ways and Means Committee member for three sessions had the following to say:

"The budget, as reported, is a crude piece of political juggling. It was sired by the Democratic leaders of California and will be damned by almost everybody, including many Democrats. It is a school boy attempt to get even with and rebuke Governor Merriam. He should welcome such a rebuke. Thank God we have a senate."

HATFIELD IN PLEA FOR SOUND SCHOOL SYSTEM

Seventy five Rotarians, wives and friends gathered at dinner last evening in the National Hotel to hear Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield make a strong plea for adequate funds for carrying on the state's educational system. He endorsed a bill pending in the legislature which would give school teachers a minimum of $135 per month.

Hatfield, whose younger days were spent here, who graduated from the Nevada City schools, was introduced by Frank Finnegan, Rotarian president. It is expected that Hatfield two years hence will be formidable contender for governor of California.

Real economy, declared the lieutenant governor, dictates a school system well supported and maintained. It is much better, he said to spend thousands on our public schools and university now than to spend millions later on old age pensions and corrective and criminal institutions. He declared it false economy to curtail or cripple the school system.

The lieutenant governor was warmly greeted during the evening by many old friends in Nevada City.

OLD COINS FOUND IN NOR. COLUMBIA PLACER

T. C. Bigelow, mining man of North Columbia, was a business visitor in Nevada City yesterday and displayed a number of old coins he had picked up in the riffles in the sluice box along with the gold recovery. They were dimes, half dimes and two Chinese coins. Dates were 1825, 1849 carrying 13 stars for the states; 1887, 1893. Mr. Bigelow is operating a drag line in the stream bed with two brothers and finds the ground was evidently worked in the 49'er period.

He stated an old flume ran through a portion of the property remains of old time operations, and in the present work gravel is taken from both sides of the stream as well as the bed. The Chinese coins show that the gravel was worked by Chinese also in early days, before hydraulic operations were carried on with monitors.

Mrs. G. R. deBeque, Nevada county chairman, is in charge of the meeting. Dinner will cost $1.00 per plate.

For those who do not wish to attend the dinner there will be a meeting afterward at the Woman's Improvement club, 217 South Church street in Grass Valley. Senator Phillips will speak on the "General Condition of the American Ideal." and Miss Mitchell (Mrs. Sanborn Young) will talk on the aim and plan of Pro America.

Fewer Men Employed Under New Wage Scale

A decrease is noted in the number of men employed in mining in this county during the past month. As compared with 2,609 miners at work the middle of March, a canvas of the mines made yesterday reveals 2,380 men now employed. However, the average monthly pay, used in computing the payroll, is now $150 per month as against $140 used last month. So with the decreased number of men employed it will be noted that the total payroll is $357,000 as compared with last month's total of $365,000.

Decreased employment has come as a result of shutting down several of the smaller properties, and to closing of the old Brunswick mine by Idaho Maryland, due to the fact that it was working in marginal ore and could no longer afford to mine i at the wage scale recently agreed upon with the Mine Workers Protective League. The Brunswick closing accounts for nearly one hundred men now without employment.

A question now being debated is whether gold mining companies in California must operate under the terms of the Wagner Labor act, which affects only those corporations which involved in interstate commerce. Many believe that gold mining companies will not be affected by the act since the government ieself buys the gold and it is sold at the San Francisco mint. However, it seems likely that this suestion will very shortly be raised in court, since it is understood that an investigation of the action of Idaho Maryland Mining company, in closing the old Brunswick is now being made by regional officers of the Federal Labor Board.

Probably at no time in recent years has there been such a sustained inquiry by substantial interests, as is being made now, for promising mining properties in this county. Reports of examinations of various properties are being made and the prospect for investment of new capital in the resumption of mining in several of the old properties is considered excellent.

Several mines closed during the winter because of heavy snow and interrupted communications are reported as getting ready to resume work as soon as conditions permit. In Sierra county there has been more activity during the past month than for several years past. The recent strike in the Oriental mine at Alleghany has greatly stimulated interest in that district, and several mines have been reopened in he vicinity of Downieville and Sierra City. Reports from various mining operations follow:

DAISY BLUE MINING COMPANY

A contract was let yesterday morning for the construction of a mile power line to be built to the Daisy Blue Mining company property northwest of Nevada City. This was originally the Marks property. The new company has purchased a two drill compressor and electric pump. Work was resumed at the mine yesterday morning with four men employed. After sinking a 112 foot shaft and proving the ore to be good in values and veins wide enough to pay to operate, the mine closed several weeks for reorganization. The new company will sink another 100 feet to develop ore.

We the People Do Ordain

By REV. GERALD B. WINROD, D. D.,
Wichita, Kansas.

Just before the writing of the Constitution, our Country was in the grip of a greater disaster than anything we have experienced since the collapse of the stock markets in 1929.

The American dollar was only worth two and one-half cents. This was five years after the Revolutionary war. Mobs were being formed everywhere. Hungry men were resorting to "direct action."

Gangs of hoodlums drove Congress out of Philadelphia and forced it to flee into New Jersey. Shay's Rebellion broke out in New England and demolished several court houses. The national credit of the government was gone. The colonies were the laughing stock of the world.

Social life was in disorder. Labor was at a standstill. Morals were being shattered. All this seemed to crush the soul of George Washington. His letters written at that time show how deeply his spirit was moved.

One year before the Constitution was drafted, he wrote to a friend as follows: "Unless something is done, I can see nothing ahead but the black night of anarchy."

On October 7, 1785, Washington wrote to James Warren: "The wheels of government are clogged. We are descending into the vale of confusion and darkness."

Finally, on December 26, 1786, less than nine months before the signing of the Constitution, Washington sent the following letter to Henry Knox: "I feel, my dear General Knox, infinitely more than I can express to you, for the disorders, which have arisen in these States. Good God! Who could have foreseen, or predicted them."

It was in this atmosphere of uncertainty that the convention was called, in the year 1787, in the City of Philadelphia, for the purpose of drafting a fundamental document which should become the governing authority of the Nation.

This epoch-making gathering was attended by 55 men. For five months they labored, struggled and wrestled with the problem before them.

Then, finally, out of the travail of their souls, out of the white fire of their brains, came the Constitution, a document which William E. Gladstone called "The most wonderful ever struck off, at one time, by brain and purpose of man."

The Preamble of the Constitution deals with principles which are eternal. These principles reach to the very roots of human nature. One might as well try to revise the ten digits of mathematics as to improve upon this basic statement of fact.

History shows that as soon as the Constitution was written, economic and political cosmos began to evolve out of chaos. Peace and tranquility came upon the colonies.

This great document has given the American people more liberty for a longer period of time, than any other nation in the history of the world has ever enjoyed. We may not appreciate our liberties now, but we will miss them if they are ever taken from us.

Lost liberties are never regained without a blood-bath!

Every school boy knows, that the function of the United States Supreme Court is to safeguard the liberties of the American people by interpreting the Constitution as it was written by our forefathers.

The Supreme Court is to the United States what the main-spring is to your watch! Start tinkering with the main-spring and see what happens to your time-piece!

The strength of the Constitution, the secret of its influence upon the political thought of the world—rests in what historians call its system of "checks and balances."

The thought uppermost in the minds of the men who framed the Constitution was to safeguard the liberties of generations unborn. Every true statesman from George Washington down to the present hour, has concerned himself about the preservation of these liberties.

The Constitution begins with these words, "We the people." This opening phrase unlocks the entire document. These three words, written back in the year 1787, spoke terror to the heart of every autocrat sitting upon every throne, of every nation of Europe.

Here was a new conception, a new ideal, in the science of government. Here were people, residing in a new part of the world, whose leaders assembled in the city of Philadelphia had the audacity to say in no uncertain terms that they were capable of governing themselves.

Now, let me quote the entire Preamble of the Constitution: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States."

"We the people." "Form a union." "Establish justice." "Insure Tranquility." "Provide for defense." "Promote the general welfare." "Secure the blessings of liberty."

Could ideals be more noble? Here are fundamentals which reach to the soul of humanity. Here are principles as immutable as Gibraltar.

But we need to bear in mind that the responsibility for preserving these underlying doctrines of true Americanism rests, in the last analysis, upon the people themselves. "We the people."

Only the collective will of the people, can animate the Preamble with perpetual life. Only the will of the masses, expressed through their representatives at the Nation's Capital can give vitality to this great fundamental document.

Milton once said: "The State is a person and has a soul."

It is true that every nation has a soul. The soul of the United States is composed of the combined will, thought and emotion of the citizens. Individuals often lose their souls and sink into materialism.

"What is a man (or a nation) profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

If a nation is to endure, its soul life must be cultivated. The disintegration of soulforce means the eventual dissipation of physical strength. The physical aspects of a nation can never be stronger than its soul-life.

During the last few years, our spiritual powers have been greatly dissipated. We are today passing through a moral sag of nationwide proportions. The moral life of the nation is at stake. Now spiritual vitality is our supreme need. Only a spiritual awakening can save us and preserve our ideals, at this late date.

STATES SURPLUS FRUITS GO INTO BEVERAGE PACK

BERKELEY, April 21.—The country seems to have started to bring up its fruit and some of its vegetable surplus crops in real earnest. The 1936 pack of the four principal fruit and vegetable juices was about 18,000,000 cases, all told, or considerably more than the pack of all canned fruits in California. Tomato juice started "from scratch" in 1929 to an estimated pack of nearly 9,000,000 cases in 1936. Pineapple, orange and grapefruit juice are finding a steady sale, and peach, apricot and plum juice are now bidding for a place in the market.

These facts were made known to a group of California canners meeting on the campus of the University of California to hear staff members of the Fruit Products Division of the University discuss the preparation and the prospects of fruit and vegetable juices. The figures on juice consumption were given by Professor W. V. Cruess, head of the division, who also stated that laboratory experiments with apricot, peach and plum juices show that the extracts have considerable promise.

Dr. M. A. Joslyn, a member of the Fruit Products staff, advised that, while farmers and orchardists should watch developments in the juice situation, they should take note of the fact that not all fruits are suitable for juice making and not all varieties of the juice fruits are equally desirable. Soil and climate conditions and the condition of the fruit are also important factors, he said. The involved processes of extraction, preparation and care of the juice were also gone into detail by Dr. Joslyn, who stated that the greatest care must be exercised if the juices are to retain all of their flavor and nutritive qualities. He stressed the need for using only freshly packed, sound and mature fruits.

E. M. Mark, another member of the Fruit Products staff, explained laboratory methods in the preparation of prune juice. Certain elements in this juice make it particularly desirable as a market feature, he said.

OXFORD MINE RESUMES WORK

Eighteen men are now employed at the Oxford Mine above Downieville. Two shifts are being worked in the mine and one in the mill. The mill is being operated ten hours a day and an official stated that there are 30 tons being milled in that time. It is expected that the capacity of the mill will be increased to 60 tons in the next 15 days.

The operators of the mine say there are developing the mine preparatory to working on a large scale basis.

The official reported that nearly $170,000 has been spent at the mine in the past four years. $140,000 of this has been spent in wages of local men. Harry E. Smith of Tole, Utah, is the superintendent of the mill. When the mill is working at it's top capacity the official reported, that 100 tons of ore a day will be produced.

The most modern equipment has been installed at the property including an all steel building with cement foundations, ball mill, Oliver filter and thickeners and conditioners. Riblet arial tram which is 1800 feet long and concentrating tables. The mine is equipped with Ingersoll Rand material.

The operators plan to develop the property for production on a large scale basis in the near future.

MINERS FOUNDRY BUSY ON MINE MILL ORDERS

The Miners Foundry is getting out an order for a 50 ton daily capacity cyanide plant for the Mt. De Oro Mining company at Woodleaf, Yuba county.

The company is also getting ready to deliver a 175 ton daily capacity mill and plant to the Rosencranz Mining company at Rosencranz, El Dorado county.

The Miners Foundry company, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Goyne and Ted Edinger, manufacture all the machinery and sent crews out from their shop to install them on the mining properties to assure successful operation.

GRACEY MINE

Superintendent Thomas Coan stated he has ten men employed at the Gracey mine south of Nevada City. Drifting is being done on the 600 foot level. It is reported formation is very hard in the lower levels, making progress slow.

LUCKY JANE PROPERTY

Three men are employed at the Lucky Jane gravel mine at Relief Hill. C. E. Clark is in charge of operations and stated the property will be ready for active operation as soon as the debris dams are built.

BILL WOULD PUT MARRIED WOMEN BACK IN HOMES

By LEONE BAXTER

"A married woman with a paid job, in the opinion of a few people, is an interloper, stealing some man's job and adding to the tragic problem of unemployment! Nothing could be more false!"

Those are the emphatic words of Chase Going Woodhouse, director of the Institute of Women's Professional Relations. "Today," he concludes, "the wife cannot make candles. But since the electric light bill must be paid, it has proven reasonable and sensible for her to compensate by earning!"

Thus the eminent economist reduces to fundamentals the question: "Shall wives work?" — a question rendered exceedingly pertinent by a pending bill proposing to solve the unemployment problem by refusing work to married women whose husbands earn more than $1,500 a year.

Today, according to the Federal Women's Bureau, almost eleven million American women are working for wages. Three million are married. Of that three million, 36 per cent are in domestic and personal service in other women's homes; 20 per cent are in factories; 9 per cent in agricultural pursuits. In other words, 65 per cent are occupied at laborious, rather badly paid, uninteresting work. Further, the Washington bureau reports, more than a third of employed wives carry full responsibility for home-making; their dependents average more than two apiece!

In light of these facts, does it appear, as has been contended, that most wives take jobs because they dislike housework — because they selfishly desire "pin money" for luxuries? The answer is evident enough. It does not!

Generally, women are of more economic value in the house than out of it; undoubtedly there would be fewer childless marriages if wives remained at home; perhaps, fewer divorces. On the other side of the ledger, almost any normal, intelligent woman prefers her natural role of charming wife and gracious mother, to the double job of "working wife." But as the figures prove, she works, in the majority of cases, as a matter of economic necessity—not choice.

The bearing the situation may have on unemployment is slight. In the low income family, the wife's supplementary wage is urgently needed. In the few higher salaried groups, increased income makes work for domestic help, trades, restaurants, cleaners, beauty shops, dress shops, etc.

While the effort to spread work is laudable, the plan to allot employment on a basis other than ability would prove, according to economists, not only supremely unfair, but completely impractical.

SIX THOUSAND BOTTLES AFLOAT

LA JOLLA — Visitors to sea coast line of the Pacific Ocean during the next few months should watch for quart wine bottles afloat in the water or cast up on the shore. By doing this they may aid materially in an intensive study 'of ocean currents, according to Dr. H. U. Sverdrup, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California. The institution has joined with the California Fish and Game Commission in making the study, the commission being interested in the surface currents during the time of year when sardines are spawning.

The study will be made by a series of drift bottle experiments. The boat Bluefin of the commission will make three different cruises into the ocean, and on each cruise two thousand bottles will be cast out at various locations. Each bottle will contain a card printed in both Spanish and English, on which the finder is asked to note the location in which he found the bottle, together with the date, and mail the card to the fish and game commission.

Just how many of the six thousand bottles will ever be heard from is a matter of conjecture. Each bottle will be weighted with sand sufficient to keep all but the neck submerged thus illuminating wind interference. Dr. Sverdurp and Dr. R. H. Fleming of the Scripps Institute are now on the first cruise, sailing Mar. 22, to return about April 4.

LAW FAILURE DUE TO FAULTY BILL DRAFTING

Prof. Erwin H. Griswold of the Harvard Law School, testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee during hearings on the Supreme Court "reorganization plan," said his experience had shown that more legislation has been declared invalid through faulty preparation than because of over-conservatism among the members of the United States Supreme Court. He cited as an example the first Frazier-Lemke Bill, which was hastily rushed through Congress and unanimously pronounced unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Later, a revised and carefully drawn bill covering substantially the same legislation was unanimously approved. He pointed out several other acts in which he said the blame for invalidation "rests not with the Court but with the draftsmen." He stated that Congress has sometimes passed acts where doubt of constitutionality was recognized and admtited, and added, "Too often it seemed as though the Court was regarded as a convenient place to shift responsibility."

One of the chief grounds for criticism of the Harrison-Black-Fletcher Bill, now before Congress for consideration, is its alleged failure to state definitely what it means by the terms "public schools," "public education," and "educational purposes." The sponsors of the measure have stated that it is the intention of the bill to oppropriate funds in aid of public schools, yet the measure has been so worded, that experts who have studied it are of the opinion that under its present provisions a state legislature would be warranted in diverting the money to almost any purpose which it might choose to label educational.

The Senate Committee on Education and Labor amended the bill by requiring that each state legislature shall provide for "a just and equitable distribution and expenditure of said funds among the several public schools of that state or territory." But, to a provisio in the original bill for withholding future distribution of funds from states which have disregarded this and other provisions of the law, the Senate Committee has also added the words: "If, after being so notified, a state or territory does not comply with sections 3, 7 and 8, and—or does not expend its apportionment for educational purposes," then future payments are to be withheld. Nowhere in the bill does it state what is meant by "educational purposes." In this manner the effectiveness of the first amendment mentioned is completely nullified.

Should the measure be passed in its present form the way will be opened for expensive and long drawn out litigation to determine how Congress intended to have its appropriation used. Critics of the bill claim that it should not be difficult to express that intention so clearly and definitely that no court interpretation would ever be needed.

It is also thought by legal authorities that there is danger that the whole bill might be declared unconstitutional should it be passed in such form as to permit any part of the funds to be diverted to sectarian schools.

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

Plans call for a new road to be built from the Spanish mine around the mountain and down to the mill and mine plant of the Gaston for an easier grade. In the past water power was used but new plans call for a Deisel engine to create power to operate the plant. There is a 20-stamp mill, boarding house, bunk houses and other buildings on the property. It is expected snow will melt sufficiently in a short time to permit workmen to start operations. The mine was worked in 1930 and closed when it was found water power was inadequate for continued operations. Messrs. St. John, Moss and Dickerman were the original owners of the property.

CAMP BYRD BABICH PROPERTY

George Beck has four men employed at the Camp Byrd mine northeast of Washington. Considerable development was done at this property last fall, deep snow closing it for the winter. A crew has just reopened the road and work started on ore that holds good promise.

IDAHO-MARYLAND MINES CO.

The Idaho-Maryland Mines company at Grass Valley closed the old Brunswick mine located east of Grass Valley and on an adjoining piece of their property, last week laying off 90 men. Reports yesterday gave the men employed as 500 as against 600 or more formerly employed. It is understood the ore in this mine is the so-called marginal ore and could no longer be worked with a profit due to the higher wages paid the miners in their recent pay increase.

GIANT KING MINE

The Chollar Extension Mines company of Nevada is operating the Giant King mine at Washington. George S. Clack of Reno, Nevada, heads the company. John Lee is superintendent and Coley Boreham, of Nevada City, is mine foreman. Latest reports give good value on ore being trucked to the Queen Lil custom mill at Nevada City where a satisfactory recovery is being made. The contract with the custom mill calls for 500 tons of ore per month. Immense beins exposed in three tuniels in the mine indicate it will make one of the largest producers in Nevada county when in full operation.

GASTON MINE

C. Colombo, and sons are expected to arrive from Southern California in the next few days to start reopening the Jim mine for the season's operations. The mine was worked until late last fall closing with the first winter storm. About a quarter mile of road remains to be cleared of snow. the Camp Byrd Babich interests having cleared the road to their property in the same district. A mill and considerable new equipment was installed at the Jim mine last year.

NEVADA MINE

Superintendent George R. Carter has two men employed at the Nevada mine southeast of Nevada City. The new tunnel is being driven in a southerly direction to contact the Orleans vein. A new vein running east and west carrying good values was cut a few days ago. Development has started on the new vein and it has opened up from a few inches to between two and three feet.

MT. VIEW MINE

Superintendent J. White of the Mt. View mine is in Los Angeles. One man is employed to keep the property in shape until he returns. Deep snow closed the mine but it is expected it will reopen in a short time.

MISTLETOE MINE

The name of the Mistletoe mine in the Rough and Ready district has been changed to the Sierra Vista Mines, Inc., through recent incorporation. The company consists of F. P. Glick, L. F. Roberts and Pauline Glick. Roberts is in charge of the property. Considerable development work has been done and this property holds fine promise.

EQUIPMENT FOR HUDSON MINE

H. D. Draper, local assayer, assisted in taking equipment to the Hudson mine Tuesday for new interests. He also has inquiries as to a gravel property on Greenhorn creek but deep snow prevents a trip to the property for a few days.

QUEEN LIL MILL

The Queen Lil custom mill started treating ore from the Giant King mine at Washington Monday. Superintendent H. D. Draper states good values are being recovered. Three trucks are hauling ore continuously from the Giant King to the mill.

NORAMBAUGA PROPERTY

Over a period of several months the shaft has been unwatered and cleaned out and ore mined for mill tests Marshall Draper is in charge of operations A. R. Archibald of Grass Valley is also interested in the mine.

"What is a cannibal, Tommy?"
"I don't know."
"Well, if you ate your mother and father, what would you be?"
"An orphan."

UNEMPLOYMENT RESERVES MOUNT TO $21,126,623

SACRAMENTO, Apr. 22.—Moneys deposited by the California Unemployment Reserves Commission in the Unemployment Trust Fund equal a sum sufficient to pay maximum unemployment compensation of $15 a week for 20 weeks to 70,423 persons.

Carl L. Hyde, Executive Director of the commission made this announcement today following receipt of a notice from the Treasury Department in Washington that California's $21,025,000 had earned interest of $97,326.27 during the quarter ending March 31.

This sum, added to $4,297.52 earned in 1936 makes a total of $101,623.79 earnings for an approximate period of four months and a total in the fund of $21,126,623.79.

"The interest earnings alone," said Hyde, "would pay maximum benefits to 338 unemployed persons. Benefts, of course will not be paid until after January 1, 1938."

The total of 70,423 persons is approximately six per cent of the 1,200,000 workers in California who will be eligible to receive unemployment compensation next year should they happen to be out of jobs. This number of workers has contributed to the fund during the past year.

The quarterly earning for the entire amount deposited in the unemployment trust fund by all states was $694,017.91, according to the letter received by Hyde. The funds can be used only to pay unemployment benefits.

ATTY. WARD SHELDON TO BUILD HOME ON RIDGE

Attorney and Mrs. Ward Sheldon of Nevada City have purchased property on the "Ridge Road" south west of Nevada City for a new home. It will be a nine room, story and a half, modern home of Colonial architecture. Mrs. Sheldon stated it is expected work will start the middle of May on the new home.

The property adjoins the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Osborne and is situated in one of the choicest home site locations in this district.

A happy coincidence is the fact that Mr. Sheldon, who has resided in the San Francisco bay area some time, was reared in the same section of Wisconsin as Mrs. Osborne. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne have resided in this county for about four years. Their homes in the east were across the road and the families were close friends.

WOMEN UNITE TO OPPOSE PRICE FIXING BILLS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Women residents of towns and cities are joining hands with the farm wife in opposing legislation which would fix wholesale and retail prices of the vital necessities of life to the detriment of the farmer and consumer, according to Mrs. H. W. Thomas, vice president of the San Francisco P. T. A. in charge of public health.

In a recent address before a representative group of club women, Mrs. Thomas said:

"There are at least 20 bills in the state legislature which would fix or freeze prices of vital necessities, principally milk. One series of bills, Assembly Bills 1287, 1288 and 1289, would guarantee by law an exhorbitant markup on milk by forcing all stores to sell this vital food at five cents a quart more than the price paid the producer, no matter how much or how little the producer is paid.

"Mind you, these bills do not guarantee a fair profit to the producer on his milk. These bills merely mean that whether or not the farmer is making money or losing money, those who handle his product in between himself and the ultimate buyer shall be guaranteed by law, a profit which I believe is exhorbitant.

"Assembly Bill 2442 would give the state the power to fix both the wholesale and retail prices of milk. Assembly Bill 50 and 77 set up state milk standards and place the vital function of milk inspection in the hands of political appointees.

"Assembly Bill 1106 would permit wholesalers to buy at low prices early in the season, hold their products until the prices go up and then sell them at the higher prices, free from competition because the law would not permit anyone to sell at less than late season prices. We women who live in the cities and towns of California realize that, if this bill is passed, it will result in saddling the farmer with even greater surpluses, which have been the bane of his existence for so many years, in that they will keep retail prices of his product at exorbitant figures and straigle his retail market.

"We women are the purchasing agents of the nation. We spend 87.3 per cent of the national pay check. We are in favor of a fair profit for the farmer, wholesaler and retailer, but it is my belief that the modest profits of the farmer and the increases in the wages of the laborer are being taken advantage of by an organized minority to pad prices far beyond the ratio of farm profits and increased labor costs.

"All women should join in halting these nefarious practices."

EARTHQUAKE FAULT LOCATED OFF HUMBOLDT

BERKELEY — Special study of three large earthquakes centering off the California coast since the summer of 1934, has resulted in the location of a geologic fault between 75 and 100 miles offshore from Humboldt county. This was annonuced at the thirty-sixth annual meeting here of the Seismographical Society of America, meeting jointly with the Cordilleran or Pacific Coast section of the Geological Society of America. The announcement was made by Professor Perry Byerly, seismologist of the University of California.

"A special study has been made of the three large shocks centering off the coast since the establishment of the University's seismograph station at Ferndale," Dr. Byerly said. "These occurred on July 6, 1934, January 2, 1935, and June 3, 1936. Accurate location of the epicenters of these shocks show that their centers do not lie along a prolongation of the San Andeas fault from Point Arena, but rather lie in a more or less north and south direction along a line between 75 and 100 miles out from the coast line and extending from the northern to the southern boundary of Humboldt county.

"Faulting more or less parallel to the coast line, this line is the probable cause of the Humboldt county earthquakes. This fault should not be considered as an extension of the San Andreas, since, at its southern end, it tends to curve out to sea.

"Since the University, oin cooperation with Mr. Joseph J. Bognuda of Ferndale, has established the seismographic station at that point, it is possible to locate quite accurately the epicenters of earthquakes which center off the coast of Humboldt county. This region is one of the most active in Californnia."

TRAILER CAMPS TAX PROBLEMS ARE STUDIED

BERKELEY—What shall be done about the automobile trailer camp situation?

Who should be exempt from taxation and why?

These are two of the questions asked the Joint Information Service for Counties and Cities, just set up on the campus of the University of California, by the League of California Municipalities and the County Supervisors Association.

The new service, which is financed by the Spelman Fund of New York and the League of Municipalities is designed to obtain for the cities and counties all available information on budget making, sanitary control, and the many other problems, new and old, that confront them. The Joint Information Service is now engaged in a close study of numerous situations that call for supervisory legislation and regulation.

The director of the new service is Joseph M. Long who, at the time of his appointment was director of research and personnel in the office of the Berkeley city manager. He is a graduate of the University of California with the class of 1932, where he majored in Public Administration. Before going to the city manager's office he was with the State Personel Board in Sacramento.

The Spelman Fund provides funds for this type of information service as an aid in effecting economies in the governments of cities and counties. The grant calls for a comprehensive study of city and county governmental problems in order that a competent central source of information may be made available and legislation framed accordingly.

The headquarters for the service are in the Bureau of Public Administration in the Bureau of Public Administration of the University, the facilities of which have been placed at the disposal of the new organization.

ALLEGED HIT RUNNER NABBED

Arthur Lincoln of LeBarr Meadows was taken into custody Wednesday following an automobile accident near Grass Valley in which two women were injured.

The officers charge Lincoln disappeared after a crash between automobiles driven by himself, Herbert Brown and Lester Sisson.

He was arrested later by the highway patrol.

The women were riding in the machine driven by Lester Sisson.

HORSE THAT GRAZED POSEY BEDS IMPOUNDED

"A horse! My kingdom for a horse!" exclaimed Richard III when hard pressed in battle, but this is not what Garfield Robson says. He doesn't want a horse or horses under any circumstances. Hay burners, he declares, are not only out of date, along with buggies, but they are nuisances besides. There came a call Tuesday morning, bright and early, from an irate garden owner on one of Nevada City's seven hills, that a horse was at large, ruining posey beds, puncturing lawns, wandering in and out of gates, leaving a wake of wreckage and desolation. Hopping into his Black Maria and summoning his faithful aide and staff, Lieutenant Charles Ninnis, the chief speedily discovered the horse, and with Ninnis leading it from the car's rear, the Black Maria crept at a snail's pace to the city pound. A dejected horse now awaits it's owner who must bring with him $2.00.

BANK OF AMER. REPORTS MARCH BUSINESS GAINS

Showing impressive gains in construction, carloadings and retail sales, California business maintained its satisfactory pace in March, according to the current issue of the Bank of America Business Review.

March building permit values for thirty-two cities in California increased 50 per cent over February and 24.8 per cent over the corresponding month of 1936. For the first three months of the year, total California permit values exceeded those of the same period last year by 23.4 per cent.

Revenue freight carloadings in the state for March scored a 28.4 per cent increase over February and a gain of 17 per cent over the corresponding month of last year. First quarter loadings were 14.1 per cent above the similar period in 1936.

Last month's index of prices received by California farmers for twenty four principal farm commodities was up 30.8 per cent above the corresponding month in 1936. The index now stands at 140 per cent of the 1910-1925 average, the highest level attained since September, 1930 with the exception of February of this year when the index was three points higher.

Department store sales in California reached the highest March standing since 1931, the index gaining 12.4 per cent over its March, 1936, level. The February to March comparison showed a 5.8 per cent rise. Bank debits in fifteen California cities were 18.7 per cent ahead of the corresponding month in 1936.

April -- the Perfect Shipping Month

A closer unity between shipper and customer—with the railroad acting as the welding medium.

A month wherein the efforts of every railroad employee will be doubly increased toward the end of making deliveries of perfectly handled consignments. Shippers, too, are exercising more than usual care in the wrapping, packing, stowing and bracing of each shipment. And the consignee is using more than ordinary care in unpacking or uncrating and observing the condition of each shipment when received. April, the "perfect shipping month," is well underway with promises of closer understanding between shipper, receiver and railroad as result.

A railroad pays in full the losses or damages occurring during the time that shipments are in its hands. The Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad is proud of its record in care of handling shipments, expedience in delivery and minority of losses.

.....During 1936 the Nevada County Narrow Gauge handled 23,108 shipments. Damage claims were filed on but nine-tenths of one per cent of this number, or approximately 208 shipments. Every justified claim was paid in full!

It is the ambition of this railroad to even exceed this record in 1937. A clean slate and a "perfect shipping month" is the watchword!

AVERAGE CITIZEN TAXED FIFTH OF ANNUAL INCOME

By CLEM WHITAKER

The privileges and encumbrances of federal, state and local government—at current quotations — cost the average California citizen approximately one-fifth of his total income.

And there's very little probability that the ratio of "twenty cents on the dollar" will be materially changed, either upward or downward, by the state legislature now in session.

With the law mill grinding more rapidly and trends on legislation taking definite shape, all signs point to a complete stalemate on the various tax proposals pending, due to a variety of factors—some economic and some political.

Undoubtedly there will be some hectic battling between the two houses on the tax question, but when the final gavel falls the record will probably read: "No increases, no decreases"!

In the assembly, there is a fairly insistent demand for tax reduction, with many of the members favoring slash of the sales tax from 3 uer cent to 2 1-2 per cent (which would cut taxes some $30,000,000 for the coming two years) and the exemption of foodstuffs sold in restaurants which would lop off about $12,000,000 additional in biennial tax levies.

But the assembly, while talking tax reduction, is likewise voting more liberal appropriations and new social service enactments which would require additional revenue.

The Senate, on the other hand, favors maintaining the "status quo" in taxes, according to test votes thus far taken, for the avowed purpose of clearing the deficit, balancing the budget and wiping out the "red ink" which accumulated durin the depression. Most of the sales tax cuts and other reductions voted in the assembly seem certain to draw a "No" verdict in the senate. The upper house, likewise, will turn thumbs down on most of the expenditure increases authorized by the assembly, it is indicated.

Making the possibility of any major change in the tax structure even more improbable is the fact that Governor Merriam has announced he is sharpening his axe for all budget and tax amendments.

Various proposals to create a state revenue department, or some other central tax collecting agency, also seem destined to end in the legislative graveyard, with a majority of the lawmakers apparently feeling that the measures would merely serve to increase the number of state departments, without any substantial increase in efficiency.

On the tax situation as a whole the state senate and assembly teams promise to end the session in a nothing-to-nothing tie, with the score board reading: "No runs, no hits—some errors."

CHILD HEALTH DAY IS MAY 1

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—The federal government urges the observance of Child Health Day May 1, and specifically mentions the summer round up of the children. This is an activity of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and affords an opportunity to improve the health of all children throughout California.

The Federal Children's Bureau, under the medical direction and supervision is sponsoring this activity throughout the United States. Mrs. J. F. Hoadley, chairman of summer round up for the California congress of parents and teachers, states that if all parents and teachers and other agencies interested in child health see that children are registered before May 1, 1937 a definite step has been accomplished toward the improvement of child health.

The summer round up of the children in California, is a campaign to send to the entering grades of the school or kindergarten a class of children as free as possible from all remediable defects according to Mrs. Hoadley. This aids in the achievement of the child health day slogan "health protection for every child."

Capital Business

Compiled by

Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—Protest against a proposed legislation that would reduce sugar quotas of continental brokers in favor of foreign sugar producers was sent to Washington this week by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce on the request of valley growers.

In requesting the action, Lester Holmes of Clarksburg, a member of the Chamber's agricultural committee, said that reduction of the quotas as proposed in an amendment being studied by the house agricultural committee, would cost valley sugar beet interests approximately $12,000,000.

The legislation would recognize Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands on the same basis as continental growers and would increase foreign quotas.

Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works, expects to open negotiations this week for purchase by the state of Carquinez toll bridge, predicting a 15-cent toll under public ownership. Kelly will ask the American Toll Bridge Company to take $6,200,000 for the bridge over Carquinez straits. This price has approval of the California Toll Bridge Authority.

The state assembly voted this week to loan textbooks to private schools without charge. The measure takes in all schools—parochial, sectarian, private tuition, military, fraternal and others. Its cost is estimated at about $40,000 a year by Assemblyman William Hornblower, its author. The senate has yet to hear the bill.

Scheduled for consideration by the legislature this week are the state budget for 1937-39 biennium, two oil bills dealing with drilling state owned tidelands at Huntington Beach in Southern California and old age pensions.

State fair directors this week announced a schedule of prizes for county exhibits including $3,000 in "new money" in addition to the regular horticultural and agriculture departments. Counties will participate in two divisions, the first ten counties in the first division receiving $200 each and the first ten in the second division $10 each.

Virtual end of relief chiseling was reported this week as the successful culmination of a state drive against individuals having ample means of self-support, who seek relief. The assembly passed AB 65 which would exempt restaurant meals from the state 3 per cent sales tax. Also approved by the assembly and sent to the senate was AB 78 prohibiting the sale in California of any milk other than that for manufacturing purposes which is not produced by non-reacting bovine tuberculosis tested cattle.

PAY RAISE FOR 250 MINERS AT ALLEGHANY

Miners at the many mines in the Alleghany district of Sierra county were given pay raises last week. The following is the schedule at the mines:

Men who have been receiving less than $5 per day will hence-forward receive $5.75 per day; those receiving $5 and less than $6 will receive an increase of 50 cents per day; men receiving $6 will receive $6.25.

Hoist men and mill men are benefitted by a boost of 25 cents per day. Hoist men have been receiving $6.25 and will now receive $6.50. Mill men are raised from $6.00 to $6.50.

The new scale becomes effective as of April 1.

The approximate number of men from the various mines who get the increases: Sixteen-to-One, 135; Plumbago, 40; Kenton, 20; Oriental, 35; and other small mines will add about 25 or 30 to the total.

NATIVE SONS TO DEDICATE SCHOOL

The board of grand officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West of the state of California will conduct ceremonies at the dedication of the elementary school in Grass Valley at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 25. Invitations have been extended to Hydraulic Parlor, N. S. G. W., board of supervisors, city trustees, and boaard of school trustees of Nevada City and the general public to attend these ceremonies. It is expected a good delegation from Nevada City will attend.

SPRING HILL MINE

Twelve men are employed under Superintendent Don Carlos Billick. Prospecting, drifting and other development is under way in the lower levels of the Spring Hill mine located north of Grass Valley.

Nevada county's CCC quota has been increased from 6 to 12 according to Probation Officer A. W. McGagin. Tomorrow is the last day for enrollment.

HISTORIC HOUSES REPRODUCED IN FORD VILLAGE

Of special interest to business men and travelers who plan visits to the motor capital of the United States is the announcement by the Dearborn Inn at Dearborn that five replicas of houses famous in American history are being built on the south side of the Inn to provide additional room for guests. A colonial village of 18 cottages, swimming pool and bathhouse is planned eventually, a new idea in hotel keeping.

The five houses under construction are: The Edgar Allen Poe cottage, in Fordham, New York City; the shingled house at Melville, Long Island, where Walt Whitman lived; the house at Frederick, Mr., made famous by Barbara Fritchie; the Gov. Oliver Wolcott house at Litchfield, Conn., and the house at Red Hill, Campbell County, Va., where lived Patrick Henry, who asked for liberty or death.

The principal purpose of the Dearborn Inn is to provide accomodations for visitors to the Ford Rouge Plant, the Rotunda, "gate-way" to the Rouge, the Edison Institute Museum and Greenfield Village, where scores of buildings of importance in early American life have been brought for preservation.
